DETAILED ACTION

1. This Office action is in response to the patent application filed by Xubin Song on 3/17/2004 for the invention titled "Frequency Domain Ride Control for Low Bandwidth Active Suspension Systems".

The IDS filed by Applicant on 3/17/2004 will be considered in the next Office action once an election is made.

Election/Restrictions

2. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-17, drawn to a system for actively controlling the suspension of a vehicle by sensing relative strut displacement, calculating relative strut velocity, calculating a body relative velocity, extracting a first body relative frequency amplitude and subsequently actuating the adjustable strut, classified in class 701, subclass 1.
- II. Claims 18-27, drawn to a method for actively controlling the suspension of a vehicle having adjustable struts and an actuator that adjusts the struts, comprising; sensing relative strut displacement, calculating strut relative velocity, calculating relative body velocity based on the strut relative velocity, extracting a first frequency amplitude based on the relative body velocity and then actuating the actuator based on the first frequency amplitude, classified in class 701, subclass 37.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions of Group I and Group II are related as apparatus and process (method) for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another and materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the method of Group II (claims 18-27) could be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, for instance by a driver of said vehicle manually selecting a stiffness or softness setting for a vehicle's adjustable suspension.

Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art in view of their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

3. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.

4. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Edward Pipala whose telephone number is 571-272-1360. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F 9-5:30.
